6. The FTC is authorized to initiate federal district court proceedings, by its own attorneys, to enjoin violations of the FTC Act and the FDCPA and to secure such equitable relief as may be appropriate in each case, including rescission or reformation of contracts, restitution, the refund of monies paid, and the disgorgement of ill-gotten monies. 15 U.S.C. §§ 53(b), 56(a)(2)(A), and 6105(b). DEFENDANTS

8. Defendants are “debt collectors” as defined in Section 803(6) of the FDCPA, 15 U.S.C. § 1692a(6).

9. Defendants are “principal creditors” to whom a debt is owed, due, or asserted to be owed or due, or agents of principal creditors, as defined in Section 600 of New York General Business Law.

10. Defendant Campbell Capital LLC (“Campbell Capital”), also doing business as United Processing Services, is a New York limited liability company that has held itself out as doing business from addresses including the following: 334 Harris Hill Road, # 201, Williamsville, NY 14221 and PO Box 74, Bowmansville, NY 14026. Campbell Capital transacts or has transacted business in this district and throughout the United States.

11. Defendant Kahl, Heidenreich, and Nemmer LLC (“KHN”) is a New York limited liability company that has held itself out as doing business from addresses including the following: 172 Robinson Street, North Tonawanda, NY 14120 and 1517 Kenmore Avenue, Buffalo, NY 14217. KHN transacts or has transacted business in this district and throughout the United States.

12. Defendant Urban, Heidenreich, Melendez, and Associates, LLC (“UHM”), also doing business as Capital Assets, Securities, and Holdings Group, is a New York limited liability company that has held itself out as doing business from addresses including the following: 1212 Abbott Road, Suite B, Lackawanna, NY 14218; 1271 Harlem Avenue, Cheektowaga, NY 14206; and 1271 Dingens Street, Cheektowaga, NY 14026. UHM transacts or has transacted business in this district and throughout the United States.

13. Defendant J & V Receivables LLC (“J&V Receivables”) is a New York limited liability company that has held itself out as doing business from addresses including the following: 334 Harris Hill Road, # 201, Williamsville, NY 14221 and PO Box 74, Bowmansville, NY 14026. J&V Receivables transacts or has transacted business in this district and throughout the United States.

14. Defendant Rich Financial LLC (“Rich Financial”) is a Delaware limited liability company that has held itself out as doing business from addresses including the following: 338 Harris Hill Road, # 203, Williamsville, NY 14221; 5360 Genesee Street, Suite 100, Bowmansville, NY 14026; and PO Box 74, Bowmansville, NY 14026. Rich Financial transacts or has transacted business in this district and throughout the United States.

15. Defendant BCH & Associates Ltd. (“BCH”) is a New York corporation that has held itself out as doing business from addresses including the following: 269 Hinman Avenue, Buffalo, NY 14216. BCH transacts or has transacted business in this district and throughout the United States.

16. Defendant Robert Heidenreich (“Heidenreich”) is or has been a principal owner, de facto owner, member, manager, and/or officer of Campbell Capital, KHN, UHM, J&V Receivables, Rich Financial, and BCH (the “Corporate Defendants”). In running the Corporate Defendants, Heidenreich often uses the alias “Bobby Rich.” At all times material to this Complaint, acting alone or in concert with others, Heidenreich has formulated, directed, controlled, had the authority to control, or participated in the acts and practices of the Corporate Defendants, including the acts and practices set forth in this Complaint. Among other things, Heidenreich, who has used titles such as “Managing Partner” and “Director” in connection with his work for the Corporate Defendants, hired and fired employees, gave instructions to collectors about their debt collection calls with consumers, and was a signatory for many of the Corporate Defendants’ bank accounts. Heidenreich resides in this district and, in connection with the matters alleged herein, transacts or has transacted business in this district and throughout the United States.

17. Heidenreich also makes and has made calls to consumers around the country to collect debts for the Corporate Defendants. As with the other debt collectors for the Corporate Defendants, Heidenreich uses aliases when making these calls, including the alias “Collin Storm.” The Corporate Defendants are debt collectors whose principal purpose is the collection of debts.

18. The Corporate Defendants operate as a common enterprise while engaging in the deceptive and abusive acts and practices alleged below. There is common control over the Corporate Defendants through Heidenreich, who runs the enterprise’s operations from a central office or “headquarters.” The enterprise employs many of the same employees, dozens of whom have received paychecks from more than one of the Corporate Defendants. Three of the Corporate Defendants have also used the same PO Box set up by Heidenreich, who held himself out as or served as an owner, member, officer, or bank signatory of all of the Corporate Defendants. Because the Corporate Defendants have operated as a common enterprise, each of them is jointly and severally liable for the acts and practices alleged below.

COMMERCE

19. At all times material to this Complaint, the Corporate Defendants and Defendant Heidenreich (collectively, the “Defendants”) have maintained a substantial course of trade in or affecting commerce, as “commerce” is defined in Section 4 of the FTC Act, 15 U.S.C. § 44.

DEFENDANTS’ ILLEGAL DEBT-COLLECTION PRACTICES

20. Defendants use a variety of false, deceptive, and abusive tactics to extract money from consumers in violation of the FTC Act, the FDCPA, and New York State law. When Defendants’ employees initially call consumers, they often do not reveal they are calling from a debt collection company. Instead, they often pretend to work at places like a county sheriff’s office or pretend to be a process server. Using these fabricated personas, Defendants’ employees make various false or deceptive threats to consumers in order to pressure them into paying alleged debts. Defendants' employees, for instance, falsely tell consumers that they are about to be arrested, have committed crimes, or are about to be sued or served with legal papers because of their failure to pay an alleged debt. Consumers are then told they can resolve these fabricated exigencies by making payments on debts Defendants claim are owed. To help coerce these payments, Defendants' collectors frequently inflate the amounts they claim consumers owe by hundreds or even thousands of dollars. Defendants' employees also pressure consumers by calling their employers and family members about the alleged debts and use profanity and other abusive language during collection calls with consumers.

Defendants' False and Deceptive Tactics

21. Since at least 2014, Defendant Heidenreich has operated his debt-collection operation in the Buffalo area. At times, Heidenreich has managed as many as four offices where employees made repeated calls to consumers to collect on alleged debts, many of which are payday loans. Heidenreich has frequently moved these offices, changed the entities used by the operation to collect on debts, and instructed employees to use a variety of unregistered fictitious business names in interacting with consumers. These names include ERG & Associates, Precision Financial Group, and Marshall Green & Associates.

22. Some of Defendants' employees call consumers and falsely claim to work in law enforcement. These calls are typically coupled with false claims that the consumers have committed a crime or are about to be arrested on a warrant. These consumers are then told they can avoid arrest or resolve their criminal liability by speaking with someone else. Defendants' employees often claim this person is an attorney or someone who works at a law firm, even though they are really just another non-lawyer employee of Defendants. These debt collectors posing as attorneys then use the threat of criminal liability to try to extract as much money as they can from consumers.

23. One consumer, for instance, received a call from one of Defendants' employees who claimed to work at the sheriff's office in her county in Florida. The caller claimed he was coming to her house to pick her up on a warrant for "ACH fraud, defaulting on a loan, and grand larceny." When the consumer asked how she could prevent the arrest, the caller referred her to a purported attorney's office to see if that office would agree to a settlement to drop the charges. Fearing arrest and what would happen to her son if she was incarcerated, the consumer called the purported attorney and authorized a debit card payment over the phone.

24. In many other instances, consumers receive an initial call from an employee of Defendants who pretends to be a process server or affiliated with an attorney's office or law firm. These callers often claim a civil suit has been or will be filed against consumers, even though Defendants do not sue consumers to collect debts or intend to bring such suits. In addition, Defendants' employees often threaten consumers by claiming they will be served with legal papers at work or at home.

25. For example, one of Defendants' scripts for collection calls with consumers claims a lawsuit is about to be filed but suggests it can be avoided by calling "the legal offices of ERG associates [sic]":

Prior to the complaint being active for scheduling against your name. . . . i am giving you 1 opportunity for either yourself or your legally retained council to contact our office back. . . . Failure to respond will result in further action taken. You have been notified.

26. Similarly, one consumer received a voicemail from Defendants that falsely stated that a “claim has been filed against” him and that the voicemail itself was “deemed service.” Another consumer, who had settled her debt by making three payments to Defendants, subsequently received a letter marked “Urgent” by email that claimed “a motion was submitted to the office of courts in regards to this debt.”

27. Defendants frequently add more pressure by telling consumers that they owe more than Defendants’ own records indicate consumers owe. This practice, in which Defendants demand more than a consumers’ Balance In Full or BIF, is known in the industry as “overbiffing.” Defendant Heidenreich encourages overbiffing, and payment forms completed by Defendants’ collectors reflect this practice. Specifically, the forms used by some of Defendants’ collectors were designed to distinguish between the amount a consumer owed, according to Defendants’ records, and the amount collectors told consumers that they owed. These forms had both a “Client Balance” field for the amount a consumer purportedly owed and an “Original Balance Given” or “Balance Given” field for the amount collectors claimed consumers owed. In many instances, forms completed by Defendants’ collectors show the Balance Given to consumers is higher than the Client Balance. The Balance Given to consumers is often a few hundred dollars higher than the Client Balance, and, in some cases, the Balance Given is thousands of dollars more than the Client Balance. In numerous instances, the “settlements” with consumers that result from this coercive and illegal overbiffing, as documented by Defendants’ collectors, are for amounts that exceed the Client Balance. Similarly, in numerous instances, consumers received calls from Defendants’ collectors about alleged debts that they were not obligated to pay because, for instance, they had already been paid, settled, or were never incurred.

Unlawful Disclosure of Alleged Debts to Third Parties

28. The FDCPA prohibits debt collectors from telling third parties about alleged debts, except for a limited group of individuals, such as a consumer's attorney. Despite these limitations, Defendants' employees frequently call employers and family members about consumers' alleged debts.

Profane and Abusive Language

29. During collection calls, Defendants' employees often use profane and abusive language. For example, one collector used the f-word in a call and told the father-in-law of a consumer from Pennsylvania that he was a "dumb-a coal miner." Likewise, another collector angrily told a consumer that she was "the dumbest son of a bitch that I know."

VIOLATIONS OF THE FTC ACT

30. Section 5(a) of the FTC Act, 15 U.S.C. § 45(a), prohibits "unfair or deceptive acts or practices in or affecting commerce."

31. Misrepresentations or deceptive omissions of material fact constitute deceptive acts or practices prohibited by Section 5(a) of the FTC Act.

COUNT ONE

False or Misleading Representations Regarding the Identity of Callers

(By Plaintiff FTC Against All Defendants)

32. In numerous instances, in connection with the collection of alleged consumer debts, Defendants have represented, directly or indirectly, expressly or by implication, that:

- a. Defendants' debt collector is a member of or affiliated with a law enforcement agency or other federal or state government entity;
- b. Defendants' debt collector is a process server or is working with a process server or someone who serves legal documents; or
- c. Defendants' debt collector is a lawyer, employed by a lawyer or law firm, or working with a lawyer.

33. In truth and in fact, in all or numerous instances in which Defendants have made the representations set forth in Paragraph 32 of this Complaint:

- a. Defendants' debt collector is not a member of or affiliated with a law enforcement agency or other federal or state government entity;
- b. Defendants' debt collector is not a process server and is not working with a process server or someone who serves legal documents; and
- c. Defendants' debt collector is not a lawyer, employed by a lawyer or law firm, or working with a lawyer.

34. Therefore, Defendants' representations as set forth in Paragraph 32 of this Complaint are false or misleading and constitute deceptive acts and practices in violation of Section 5(a) of the FTC Act, 15 U.S.C. § 45(a).

COUNT TWO

False, Misleading, or Unsubstantiated Representations
Regarding the Consequences of Nonpayment

(By Plaintiff FTC Against All Defendants)

- a. The consumer has committed a criminal act, such as fraud, in connection with the alleged failure to pay a debt;
- b. Nonpayment of an alleged debt will result in the consumer's arrest or imprisonment or the service of legal papers on the consumer; or
- c. Defendants have filed, or intend to file imminently, a lawsuit against the consumer.

36. In truth and in fact, in all or numerous instances in which Defendants have made the representations set forth in Paragraph 35 of this Complaint, the representations have been false or Defendants have not had a reasonable basis for the representations at the time Defendants made them.

37. Therefore, Defendants' representations as set forth in Paragraph 35 of this Complaint are false or misleading and constitute deceptive acts and practices in violation of Section 5(a) of the FTC Act, 15 U.S.C. § 45(a).

COUNT THREE

Regarding Inflated Debts or Debts Not Owed

39. In truth and in fact, in numerous instances in which Defendants have made the representations set forth in Paragraph 38 of this Complaint, including where Defendants have inflated the specific amount of a debt, the representations have been false or Defendants have not had a reasonable basis for the representations at the time Defendants made them.

40. Therefore, Defendants' representations as set forth in Paragraph 38 of this Complaint are false, misleading, or unsubstantiated and constitute deceptive acts and practices in violation of Section 5(a) of the FTC Act, 15 U.S.C. § 45(a).

VIOLATIONS OF THE FAIR DEBT COLLECTION PRACTICES ACT

41. In 1977, Congress passed the FDCPA, 15 U.S.C. §§ 1692-1692p, which became effective on March 20, 1978, and has been in force since that date. Section 814 of the FDCPA, 15 U.S.C. § 1692l, provides that a violation of the FDCPA shall be deemed an unfair or deceptive act or practice in violation of the FTC Act.

42. Defendants are "debt collectors" as defined by Section 803(6) of the FDCPA, 15 U.S.C. § 1692a(6).

43. A "consumer," as defined in Section 803(3) of the FDCPA, 15 U.S.C. § 1692a(3), "means any natural person obligated or allegedly obligated to pay any debt."

45. "Location information" as defined in Section 803(7) of the FDCPA, 15 U.S.C. § 1692a(7), means "a consumer's place of abode and his telephone number at such place, or his place of employment."

COUNT FOUR

Prohibited Communications with Third Parties

(By Plaintiff FTC Against All Defendants)

46. Section 805(b) of the FDCPA, 15 U.S.C. § 1692c(b), prohibits a debt collector, without either the prior consent of the consumer, the express permission of a court of competent jurisdiction, or as reasonably necessary to effectuate a postjudgment judicial remedy, from communicating in connection with the collection of a debt with any person other than the consumer (defined to include the consumer's spouse, parent (if the consumer is a minor), guardian, executor, or administrator), the consumer's attorney, a consumer reporting agency if otherwise permitted by law, the creditor, the attorney of the creditor, or the attorney of the debt collector for any purpose other than acquiring location information.

47. In numerous instances, Defendants have violated Section 805(b) of the FDCPA by communicating in connection with the collection of debts with third parties other than those covered by the limited exceptions set forth in Paragraph 46 of this Complaint.

COUNT FIVE

49. In numerous instances, Defendants have violated Section 806 of the FDCPA by using obscene, profane, or abusive language in connection with the collection of debts.

COUNT SIX

- i. using a business, company, or organization name other than the true name of the debt collector's business, company, or organization (Section 807(14) of the FDCPA, 15 U.S.C. § 1692e(14)).

51. In numerous instances, Defendants have violated Section 807 of the FDCPA by using false, deceptive, or misleading misrepresentations or means in connection with the collection of debts, or by failing to make statutorily-required disclosures.
